

Dear Charles

As I have promised to write you
I have done so and I hope you will find it of some use. I have written you a long letter and I hope you will find it of some
use. I have written you a long letter and I hope you will find
it of some use. I have written
you a long letter and I hope
you will find it of some use.

My dear Charles

I have done so and I hope you will find it of some use. I have written you a long letter and I
hope you will find it of some
use. I have written you a long
letter and I hope you will find
it of some use. I have written
you a long letter and I hope
you will find it of some use.

Handwritten text on the left page, including the date "1738" and some illegible script.

Handwritten title at the top of the right page, possibly "Lange ant ofte".

First main paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "De lanting".

Second paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "Cinniblanck".

Section header for the second main paragraph, possibly "Lijff Jansen de Spont".

Third main paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "De lanting".

Fourth main paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "De lanting".

Section header for the fourth main paragraph, possibly "Cinniblanck".

Fifth main paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "De lanting".

Sixth main paragraph of handwritten text on the right page, starting with "De lanting".

In nomine domini Amen

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Old English, covering the right page of the manuscript. The text is dense and appears to be a formal document or a religious text. It includes several lines of text, some of which are written in a larger, more decorative hand, possibly indicating a title or a significant section. The text is written in dark ink on aged, yellowed paper.