Main body of handwritten text in a historical script, possibly Dutch or Flemish, detailing legal or administrative matters.

Final line of handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or concluding clause.

Handwritten text in Dutch, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and written in a cursive script. It appears to be a continuation of a document from the previous page, discussing various matters related to land, property, and possibly a court case or official record. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper.

Handwritten text in Dutch, continuing the narrative or legal proceedings. It includes several paragraphs of text, some starting with large initial letters. The content seems to detail specific events, decisions, or agreements. The handwriting is consistent with the rest of the document, showing a clear but somewhat hurried style.

Op alle datte... Handwritten text in Dutch, possibly a concluding sentence or a specific clause. It starts with 'Op alle datte...' and continues with several lines of text. The ink is dark and the paper shows signs of age.

Handwritten text in Dutch, continuing the document. This section contains several paragraphs of text, including what appears to be a list or a series of points. The text is written in a cursive hand and covers most of the page. There are some large initial letters and some text that is slightly faded or less legible.

Jan zoon... Handwritten text in Dutch, possibly a signature or a name. It is written in a larger, more decorative hand than the rest of the document. The text is 'Jan zoon...' followed by a name that is partially obscured or difficult to read.
