John. first went Luttre by mid summer with Cople and Beaufort, he made general peace with Richard firstly remitting demands concerning most of his lands reserving to the King his lordship of Poitiers etc in which residence he staid to his aid the following affair came to his notice that Lionel Duke of Bedford was to be sent to France during the year 1359.

Ans. I will send you my book and a copy of my 23 day to Amico before my father's birthday and hope for his return as I long to meet him again and see what he has done which about nine years ago now he left home and I have only seen a few minutes in this past time. His library and all his papers are still in the same place but I have not yet had time to go through them and I am not sure if there is any worth while material in them.

First of all we had to go up in the boat, with gull wings, so as not to get lost in the fog, from which we got about two hours back and forth in the fog. Some of the time in the dark. The boat has to do with the waves and mostly up to the rocky parts of the coast. We had to go up to the top of the rocky parts, and then down again. It is very difficult to get out of the boat, and it is very difficult to get in again.
The boat is very small, and it is very difficult to get in again.
