2000 feet. Many fish were considered as possible specimens but the water was very muddy and I could find no fish of any kind except a few small ones.

A small way to the right from the camp I found a number of rocks which contained some good figures of the fossiliferous beds up to 2000 feet and another which was very good.

2000 feet above the camp I found a number of specimens which were well preserved and perfect and showed the most beautiful fossils I have ever seen.

The water was very muddy so I could not get any more but I will go back again and get more.

1000 ft. above sea level, and the temperature is about 10° C. The air is very dry and the sun is very hot. The vegetation is mostly desert plants like cacti, yuccas, and agaves. The soil is very poor and rocky.
The water is clear and cold, and there are many waterfalls and streams. The people here are mostly Indians and they speak Spanish. There are also some Chinese and Japanese immigrants here.

Day 2: Spent the day visiting the local museums and learning about the history of the area. We also visited the local market and saw some interesting items for sale.
The people here are very friendly and helpful.
